Laval University - 2025

CS GAMES

In March 2025, Laval University will have the honor of hosting the 20th edition of the CS Games, an academic, social and technical competition that brings together over twenty delegations from across North America each year. This prestigious competition features 16 events over three days.

These events showcase the diverse skills of the delegations, offering a variety of stimulating challenges such as web development, security, theoretical computer science and more. Each year, the competition is the stage for a fierce battle among students, pitting them against the best from each university. We are delighted to invite you to partner with this large-scale event and contribute to the continued success of the CS Games.

THE BENEFITS OF BEING PARTNER

Visibility

VALORIZATION OF YOUR AREA OF EXPERTISE

The university does not cover all branches of computer science. By sharing the specific challenges of your field, you enable students to discover new perspectives. This sharing can spark students' interest in the challenges of your field, thereby encouraging them to pursue further studies and a career in this specialty.

BUILDING OF A NETWORK OF CONTACTS

Participants in the event are often actively engaged members within their community. Being in contact with them not only provides the opportunity to become known to competent individuals in their field but also presents a chance to gain visibility within their entire university.

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

By collaborating with us, you demonstrate to students that your company is truly invested in their success and development. You encourage them to push their limits and achieve remarkable feats. Companies of this caliber can only generate keen interest among them.

THE BENEFITS OF BEING PARTNER

RECRUITEMENT

STUDENTS VALUE

The students selected to be part of the delegations during the competition are chosen based on qualifications within their respective universities. They represent the academic elite in their field, each possessing distinct specialties. This constitutes a highly diversified and captivating range of profiles for any company.

ADAPTABILITY AND AUTONOMY

The nature of the competitions requires students to prepare for a considerable variety of possibilities. Those who stand out demonstrate exceptional skills as well as astonishing adaptability and autonomy.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

As you know, among the students present, many are actively involved in the university community, even facilitating their university's participation in competitions such as ours. These students also stand out for their leadership and social skills.
